Maple Sugar.

Report of the Chemist of the Department of Agriculture on Maple Sap and the Residue after Evaporation commonly known as "Grit."

Our thanks and those of every person interested in the production of pure maple sugar are due to Hon. Worthington C. Smith for the interest that he has taken in procuring a thorough analysis of the residuary matter that has afforded maple sugar makers so much perplexity the last season. We addressed a note to Mr. Smith suggesting the advantages that might result from such an analysis, and with characteristic promptness the arrangements were made by him for securing it.

The following extracts from the report of Thomas Antiehl, M. D., Chief Chemist to the Department of Agriculture will tell the result better than we can:

"The materials examined by me were forwarded by Mr. Orville S. Bliss, of Georgia, Vermont, with a letter descriptive, consisting of one closed tin vessel containing the sap, and a collection of samples of residue after evaporation and clarification of the sap."

"The great bulk of each specimen is tartrate of lime, a crystalline salt which had its origin in the sap, of which it is a necessary constituent. It naturally separates out from the sap as evaporation proceeds, especially if sufficient time has been given in the early part of the process of boiling; at different periods of growth the salt may vary in the sap, but it must certainly be always present."

"If more pains were taken to clarify and decant the maple juice, the salt would not give so much trouble; the addition of a little milk of lime to the boiling sap would help to make it settle down more solidly. The milk of lime should be very thin, containing not more than two ounces of fresh burned lime to the gallon of water. As this tartrate is very light, the thin flat crystals often rising and mixing with the scum, the use of a little white of egg or blood, (bullock's) added to the sap will clarify the liquid pretty completely, and either of them is vastly better than milk, which is a very poor clarifier."

"If, notwithstanding the use of this method, the tartrate should give trouble, then the addition of a solution of alum will make the tartrate more dense; the alum solution should be weak, one pound of alum to one hundred gallons of water is amply strong. This alum method is not recommended, however, to be used at first, but as a last resort, when the albumen of egg and milk of lime fail in depositing the tartrate."

The complete report will form part of a little work on maple sugar, &c., &c., for which we have been collecting material for some months.

"I'm Sick, Send for McGinnis."

This is the exclamation of the Democrats through the northern portion of Vermont. A great many people who feel that they are unacquainted with him, and his system of practice, inquire, "who is this political doctor McGinnis, who has so suddenly obtained exceeding notoriety in his profession. Years ago I knew him well as a teacher of church and instrumental music, and he hails from (as the old local song hath it), "Jericho that place of woe, where knaves and rogues are plenty;" but that song was sarcastic, it did not mean so.

For a great number of years, and while the old whig party in Vermont claimed to have abolition thunder as their own, and that they were the true abolition party, "Tom" McGinnis belonged to the party, and no doubt agreed with most other whigs of the times, that the Fugitive Slave Law was obnoxious, and that "Burns" should not be returned to slavery from Massachusetts, if such a thing could be prevented. But he was not a professional man and was little more to the party than any other citizen,—he had not commenced his medico-political studies then.

When the war broke out, somehow he did not believe in co-reion, lest he might be coerced himself, and regarded the filling up of our armies in that manner as exceedingly undemocratic; notwithstanding we were fighting an enemy who "robbed the cradle and the grave" for his soldiers. Tradition hath it, that in his over-zealousness to satisfy the government that it was wrong in its method of obtaining soldiers, he had some little unpleasantness similar to Valandigham's troubles, though of less magnitude, still quite as great considering the size of the man. His medico-political studies commenced about that time, on the necessity of "physician heal thyself."

Many of the old-line Democratic stump speakers claim that he is a "quack," but of this I know nothing, though it is generally understood that no great length of time in preparation is required to obtain a diploma in that persuasion. There is this much, certain, that his treatment is harmless, generally on the steam plan, yet his cathartics are mild and emetics powerless, and to any who may feel disposed to call for his prescriptions, we will say, don't be afraid—they won't hurt you.

We will inform those who have seen Stonewall Jackson and haven't seen McGinnis, that they closely resemble each other; only in this Jackson was a Presbyterian elder while McGinnis is a Baptist deacon—McGinnis though is the liveliest man of the two, socially is a capital good fellow, and if there is any money to be made in his new profession I am glad of his success.

CUSTOM HOUSE, DISTRICT OF VT.,
COLLECTOR'S OFFICE BURLINGTON,
AUGUST 26, 1868.

Editors St. Albans Transcript:
You will allow me a small space in your valuable paper, in order that I may present to the people of Northern Vermont, a statement of facts in answer to a personal statement made by Mr. J. K. Whitney under date of June 30, 1868, in the St. Albans Messenger.

Mr. Whitney called upon me the last day of April, to explain the matter of an entry of some cows which had been seized. I informed him that the fraud alleged was undervaluation. I inquired of Mr. Whitney as to the truth of the information; his answer was, I did enter them less than cost, but at what I considered a fair valuation. To the inquiry, how much less, he did not think proper to tell me.

To this admission I herewith attach a copy of the oath to which Mr. Whitney subscribed:

OWNER'S OATH.

I, J. K. Whitney, do solemnly swear, that the entry now delivered by me to the Deputy Collector at Berkshire, Vermont, contains a just and true account of all goods, wares and merchandise imported by me overland from St. Armand, C. E., that the invoice which I now produce contains a just and faithful account of the actual cost of the said goods, wares and merchandise of all the charges thereon, including charges of purchasing cartages, bleaching, dyeing, pressing, finishing, putting up and packing, and no other discount, drawback or bounty, but such as have been actually allowed on the same; that I do not know nor believe in the existence of any Invoice or Bill of Lading other than those now produced by me, and that they are in the State in which I actually received them, and I do further solemnly and truly swear that I have not in the said entry or invoice concealed or suppressed anything whereby the United States may be defrauded of any part of the duty lawfully due on the said goods, wares and merchandise, and that if at any time hereafter I discover any error in the said invoice or in the account now produced of the said goods, wares and merchandise or receive any other invoice of the same I will immediately make the same known to the Collector of the District. So help me God.

Sworn to this 23d day of April, 1867.
Before me. Signed,

E. L. HUBBARD,
Deputy Collector.
Signed,
J. K. WHITNEY.

At the time Mr. Whitney called upon me I did not know that the case had been reported to the Secretary of the Treasury, and thereby passed out of my hands, but did inform him of the fact the next day by letter, with instructions how to proceed. That he did not get the letter for a month is no fault of mine. I did not answer his second letter as I had nothing more to say than was contained in the one dated 1st day May—I considered the transaction a plain case of fraud upon the Revenue and treated it accordingly. In his remarks as to the transactions of other individuals, I have to say that I cannot deal with generalities but if he or other individuals knowing of such practices will give me the necessary information, I will see that those persons are brought to justice, thereby rendering protection to the Revenue of the Government and preventing fraud.

I enclose a letter from Thomas Bowles, Special Inspector, the officer who transacted the business, and ask its publication.

I am respectfully,
your obedient servant,
GEO. J. STANNARD,
Collector.

WEST BERKSHIRE, VT., July 20, 1868.
GEN. GEO. J. STANNARD,
Collector of Customs, Burlington, VT.

Sir:—In the case of the seizure of J. K. Whitney's cows, made by me, at East Franklin, on April 20th, 1868, I beg leave to state that I received information that Mr. John K. Whitney had imported into this district, from Canada, four cows, for which he paid forty-five dollars in American currency, equal at that time to thirty-five in silver, each, which he had entered at the Custom House in West Berkshire at twenty-two dollars and fifty cents each. This information came direct to me from the man of whom Mr. Whitney purchased the cows, and was so entered on his books. In company with Inspector Wilson I called on Mr. Whitney. Wilson introduced me to Mr. Whitney, and told him my business. I told Mr. Whitney I had the above information and must take his cattle on the ground of under valuation. He replied to me that I was wrong, and that he entered his cattle at exactly the price he paid for them in Canada, and was able to show that was the fact. I insisted on it being my duty to seize the cattle on the information I had, when he said that he took the precaution before he went into Canada after the cows, to go to the Deputy Collector at West Berkshire and asked him what duties he would be required to pay on cows taken out from Canada, and the Deputy Collector Capt. E. L. Hubbard, told him he would have to pay a duty of twenty per cent in gold on the amount paid in gold in Canada, and that he had done so, and again strongly protested against my taking the cows away and when I told him I had no discretion in the matter, and must do my duty to the Government, he said rather than have the cattle driven off he would pay the difference between what he had paid and what the cattle cost. As a seizure made from him made under such circumstances as these would become public and would injure him very much in the community in which he lived, and when I still insisted on taking the cattle away with me, he said he cared nothing for the value of the cattle but wanted them left with him on account of the injury he would sustain in his reputation. I declined all his propositions and drove the cattle down to the Custom House and turned them over to the Deputy Collector, Mr. Henry Ladd. Mr. Whitney refused to receipt for the cattle at the appraised valuation.

Very Respectfully,
Your Obedient Servant,
THOMAS BOWLES,
Special Inspector Customs, Vermont.

Varieties.

CURIOSITIES.—A white swallow has made its appearance with its black companions on the premises of K. Walker, in Newport.

Dr. Hoskins of Newport village, while cutting bushes on his farm in West Derby, found two straight, sapling spruces, two inches in diameter, joined by a ligament like the Siamese twins.—Express.

Amos Kendall has written a letter on the political situation, taking the wrong side, as usual. We believe he is now more than two thousand years old, and he very well represents the ideas and sentiments current in the world when he was young.—Boston Transcript.

LEON GOZIAN used to say that a French woman will love her husband if he is either witty or chivalrous; a German woman, if he is constant and faithful; a Dutch woman, if he does not disturb her ease and comfort too much; a Spanish woman, if he wreaks vengeance on those who incur his displeasure; an Italian woman, if he is dreamy and poetical; a Danish woman, if he thinks that her native country is the brightest and happiest on earth; a Russian woman, if he despises all Westerners as miserable barbarians; an English woman, if he succeeds in ingratiating himself with the Court and the aristocracy; an American woman, if he has plenty of money.

DEATH OF THE INVENTOR OF THE MELODEON.—Next to the Chickerings and Steinways, there is hardly an instrument maker in this country who has been more widely or long known than Mr. Jeremiah Carhart, the inventor of the melodeon, who died a few days since. As early as 1836, while studying the construction of the accordion, he discovered that the tones of that instrument were much better when the wind was drawn through the reeds than when it was expelled through. A series of experiments followed, which led to the discovery of the melodeon. It was not until 1846, however, after ten years' of hard struggle that he was able to get out his patents. Almost every improvement made in the construction of melodeons was due to his ingenuity and perseverance. He died after achieving a fortune and an honorable name, of a lingering and acute disease.—N. Y. Evening Post.

GRISI IN A TUB.—A lady writing from Paris, tells an amusing story. She had been out driving in company with an English lady who entertained her a great deal, but who, though much admired for her style and hospitality, was eccentrically self-willed and ceremonious. One of her errands for the morning was to call and pay Grisi 500fr. for singing at one of her parties. The carriage stopped at the prima donna's lodgings. La Signora was not at home. "But I know she is," cried the imperious lady. "Yes, madam, but she is just now at her bath." "Pooh! that makes no difference—just the time to see her. Come, my dear," she said to her companion, (getting out of the carriage,) "let us go to her room—I know the way." And the two ladies pushed by the astonished dressing-maid who met them at the bedroom door, and penetrated to the dressing-room beyond, where lay the magnificent Grisi—in her tub! The reception and transaction of business was a scene of undisturbed self-possession on both sides. The greetings of the morning were familiarly exchanged without the slightest rising from the water; but on the announcement of the errand, she gracefully drew in her knees of jet black hair, which fell nearly to her knees as she rose, and stepping out upon the oil-cloth, aproned completely with the profuse tangles, she dried her hands on a towel, took the money, and gave a receipt. This done, she stood perfectly self-possessed (like a Naid Queen who had received rent for a grove, in dripping unconsciousness of her beauty), and with her dark veil held before her, curtsied out her visitors most dignifiedly—giving to one of them a ludicrous first realization of the machinery with which curiosities are made. The lady declared that she had more admired Grisi for her behavior during that call than for her finest triumphs on the stage.

Special Notices.

Missisquoi Springs.

OBERLIN, June 23d, 1868.

E. B. POTTER, Esq.,
Dear Sir:—I take the liberty to write you, asking how they are getting along at the Missisquoi Springs. Whether they are fitting up any hotels, and what the price of board is per week. Write me full particulars, all about the Springs. My health is first rate. I am as sound as I ever was. The cancer on my face is all off, and as soon as it ever was. There are other parties that want to go to the Springs this Summer. If writing you will much oblige me. Tell Mr. Wright I am much obliged to him for his courtesy in writing to me.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
JOHN E. TAILMAN.

The certificate you notice says that I commenced the use of the Missisquoi Spring water on the 7th of May, and continued till the analysis of the 16th of May. I might have said more precisely till the last of October, at which time I used up the last of the water I had from you, which was a part of that billed to me by you as I referred to October 5th at the commencement of this letter. I will say that I don't think I would have lived but a few weeks had it not been for the timely use of the Missisquoi Spring Water, and said so to your agent, and many others there last summer.

Very Respectfully, Yours,
J. B. CLARK.

ADDRESS TO THE NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED, whose sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable: If you are suffering or have suffered from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Do you feel a weak, exhausted, protracted, palpitation of the heart? Do you have nervous, or urinary, or organic, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky, or floccy, or is itropy or settling? Or does a thick scum rise on the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspnea? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling upon this subject? Do you feel faint, listless, mooping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you nervous signs? Do you feel weak, your knees weak and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver-complaint?

Now, reader, self abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? If you are afflicted with any complaint of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they do not become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and cheerful. They are not easily fatigued, and look you and their right in the face, none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about a state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to make almost every complaint—dyspepsia, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, emaciation, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have died for all the world.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a Burette. HELMOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT DUCHÉ is the great Burette, and is a certain cure for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Organic Weakness, Female Complaints, Gravel, Gleet, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or Insanity may ensue. Our fluid and blood are supported from these sources, and the health and happiness, and that of Posterity, depends upon prompt use of a reliable remedy. Helmold's Extract Burette, established upwards of 38 years, prepared by H. T. HELMOLD, Druggist, 501, New York, and 104 South 10th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Price—$1.25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $6.50, delivered to any address. Sold by all Druggists everywhere.

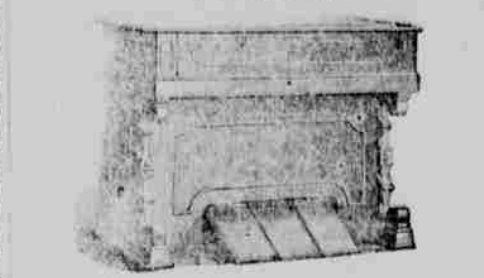

None are genuine unless done up in steel engraved wrapper, with facsimile of my Chemical Warehouse, and signed
